HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO BUILD A BARN, INSTALL FENCING OR CONSTRUCT AN ARENA?

Hoof Print Construction Services develops horse properties in and around the Triangle, NC. Everyone of our projects is as unique as the horses that live there, but they all start with that loaded question:

“ What will it cost? ”

Prices vary widely based on how many upgrades you'd like to add, but here is what you can expect to pay on the high and low end for some of the most common farm projects.

A New Barn

$30 - $80+ per square foot

Much like houses, barns come in all shapes, sizes and price ranges. It's not just size that affects your costs, it's also the bells and whistles.

FENCING

$6.50 - $15 per linear foot

The cost of a single linear foot of fencing isn't too bad but make sure you consider the size of the area you want to fence before selecting the most expensive option. One acre of pasture requires approximately 800 linear feet of fencing.

Outdoor Arena

$.75 - $1.25 per square foot

A riding arena can be one of the largest investments you'll make on your farm second only to the barn itself. The size of your ring will depend on your budget and discipline, but the above estimate is based on the 100'x200' arenas we typically build and would include grading, riding surface and fencing. However, it does not include lighting. For outdoor lighting you can expect to add an additional $15,000 - $20,000 to your budget.

Covered Arena

$15 - $20 per square foot

No, it's not a typo. A covered arena can cost almost 10x more than an outdoor arena. That's because the metal structures that cover the arena cost approximately $200k before installation. In this price range you can also expect grading, riding surface, lighting, and wood barrier or fence on the inside of the arena.

Indoor Arena

$25 - $35 per square foot

The ultimate luxury on any farm, indoor arenas offer many options. Whether they stand alone, attach to the barn or have a lounge viewing area, they eliminate down time and provide year round comfort for you and your horses.

Now that you have a general idea of costs,
let's talk about your specific projects.
